We got water, we got food and ice. I'm just glad that Walmart's not that far in the neighborhood areas to where we can just come here and get what we need. It's awesome. I'm so happy to have everything that we got today.

During the hurricane, building up to the hurricane, we were here in the store trying to make sure that we were getting everything stocked up and ready for the customers. It means a lot to me to know that we can be here to help people when they need help.

I see it as a mission. That's why I took the People Lead job, because I really want to be that advocate and resource for our associates. I was concerned about the associates in our building, them being safe. Monday I was calling and texting as many as I could. I really want the associates to feel like I'm here for them. I feel like it's my responsibility and my mission.
