Introduction

Disclosure Policy and Guidance

Supplier transparency about the facilities used to produce merchandise for Wal-Mart Stores, Inc. (“Walmart”) is a foundational aspect of the Walmart Responsible Sourcing program. Our Standards for Suppliers set forth the expectations that suppliers be transparent by disclosing information in conformity with the requirements set out below. That transparency allows Walmart to assess supply chain risk, monitor for compliance with our Standards for Suppliers, and deploy resources in a risk-based manner—all of which helps us earn and keep our customers’ trust. It is important to note that, although Walmart does not require suppliers to disclose all facilities, Walmart’s Standards for Suppliers apply to all steps in the supply chain. Suppliers should also understand that the disclosure requirements set out below pertain only to Walmart Responsible Sourcing; other departments within Walmart may have additional or different disclosure requirements.

Disclosure Policy and Guidance

Policy

---

A supplier must disclose a facility to Responsible Sourcing under the circumstances described below, unless exempted by this policy.

Where the product is for sale by Walmart US or Sam's Club US, disclose the facility if it is:

- Engaged in primary or subcontracted production involving substantial transformation into the product Walmart sells;
- Used for Walmart-related production by a Walmart designated or Walmart nominated supplier; or
- Engaged in processing or augmenting the product after it is produced, where Walmart Private Brand identification is visible at the time of the processing or augmentation.

Where the product is for sale by any Walmart International retail market, or to be sold by Walmart through a Walmart e-Commerce platform, disclose the facility if it is:

Used in connection with the production of Private Brand Merchandise, Exclusive Brand Merchandise, or Direct Import Merchandise, AND It is:

- Engaged in primary or subcontracted production involving substantial transformation into the product Walmart sells;
- Used for Walmart-related business by a Walmart designated or Walmart nominated supplier; or
- Engaged in processing or augmenting the product after it is produced, where Walmart Private Brand identification is visible at the time of the processing or augmentation.

Where disclosure is required, the supplier is responsible for making a timely and accurate disclosure using the electronic or manual forms provided by Walmart. In completing the disclosure process, suppliers must complete all required fields and make any required certifications.

Where disclosure is required, the facility must be in “active” status prior to production of product for Walmart. See instructions covered in guidance section of this document.

Disclosure is an ongoing obligation. Suppliers are responsible for actively maintaining their facility lists, associating and disassociating from facilities, and for keeping all required information up to date. If a supplier is uncertain whether it is required to disclose a given facility, the supplier should disclose the facility to Walmart.

More than one supplier may use the same facility. Each supplier has an independent duty to disclose. The fact that a facility is disclosed by another supplier—or is not disclosed by another supplier—does not affect other suppliers' duties to disclose the same facility.

A facility must also be disclosed if it is designated for disclosure by Walmart as part of an industry, category, or market initiative sponsored by Walmart; Walmart will notify affected suppliers in the event of such designations. Walmart reserves the right to add to and amend these disclosure requirements on reasonable notice to affected suppliers.

Disclosure Policy and Guidance

In order to allocate resources toward higher-risk facilities, Walmart exempts certain facilities from ordinary disclosure requirements. Suppliers whose facilities are otherwise subject to disclosure may apply for such an exemption for a facility or facilities. Suppliers must receive approval from Walmart Responsible Sourcing on a case-by-case basis before relying upon an exemption. See guidance for details.

Walmart currently offers the following disclosure exemptions:

Disclosure Exemptions

- Approved Brands: Walmart may exempt facilities from a disclosure requirement where the supplier or brand owner of the product at issue has sufficient brand equity to protect and the product has sufficient market presence.
- Farms: Walmart may exempt farms from an applicable disclosure requirement.
- Spot Buys: Facilities producing merchandise that is the subject of a spot buy—a one-time purchase of a fixed quantity of merchandise that has already been produced and where no future orders of the same goods are anticipated—may be exempt from a requirement to disclose.
- Distributors: Facilities producing merchandise—other than Private Brand Merchandise—that Walmart purchases through a distributor may be exempt from the requirement to disclose where the distributor is:
  - (1) an intermediary selling a range of pre-produced and competing products;
  - (2) selling product brands that they neither own nor influence; and
  - (3) selling items or brands that are also sold to other retailers.

Consequences for Non-Compliance

Where disclosure is required, a supplier's failure to disclose a facility and/or the production of merchandise in an undisclosed facility is considered to be unauthorized production and can lead to consequences for the supplier, facility, or both.

Where disclosure is required, the facility must be in "active" status prior to production of product for Walmart. The production of merchandise in an "inactive" facility is considered to be unauthorized production and can lead to consequences for the supplier, facility, or both.

Suppliers may be issued consequences—including a supplier "strike" and/or reduction, suspension, or termination of business for production in an undisclosed facility. Three strikes in a two-year period will typically result in a suspension or termination of the supplier's business relationship with Walmart. Certain instances of unauthorized production may result in an immediate reduction, suspension, or termination of business.

Facility consequences related to unauthorized production may include receiving an Orange or Red rating, which may lead to the termination or reduction of that facility's eligibility to produce product for Walmart.

The final determination of consequences is made by Walmart Responsible Sourcing and the relevant merchant and/or sourcing teams.

Guidance – Approved Brand Exemption

Suppliers or their product brands that have sufficient brand equity and market presence may be exempted from the disclosure requirement. Although Walmart does not require suppliers to disclose all facilities, Standards for Suppliers apply to all steps in the supply chain.

Private Brand Merchandise, Exclusive Brand Merchandise, and non-branded products are not eligible for this exemption.

Facilities used solely for producing products that are on the Approved Brands list do not need to be disclosed to Walmart. However, if a facility is producing an Approved Brand and also producing other product for Walmart, the facility must be disclosed by the supplier producing the non-Approved-Brand product.

Is my brand on the Approved Brand list?

Suppliers with Retail Link access can view the Approved Brand lists:

Retail Link > Docs > Responsible Sourcing > Walmart Approved Brand List

Suppliers without Retail Link access should contact their buyer/sourcing contact or a Walmart Responsible Sourcing team member

How to submit a brand for consideration

To submit a brand for Approved Brand consideration, suppliers must certify the brand meets the following requirements:

1. The brand is widely recognized by consumers and thus the brand owner has equity to protect.
2. The brand is distributed by multiple retailers (not just a Walmart format or banner) in the requesting retail market.

Suppliers must complete the Approved Brand template and return it to their buyer/sourcing contact or a Walmart Responsible Sourcing team member

Guidance – Distributor Exemption

Guidance – Defining Facility Types

The following definitions are provided for convenience. Please consult with your Walmart Responsible Sourcing team member to discuss particular disclosure questions.

Primary or Subcontracted Production Facilities: A facility is engaged in primary or subcontracted production for purposes of disclosure if it is the facility where substantial transformation occurs into a product Walmart sells. “Substantial transformation” occurs when a facility produces a product that is a new and different product, with a different and distinct name, character, and use from the products or materials it consisted of previously, regardless of whether further branding, labeling, packing, or other post-production processing may occur thereafter prior to sale. A product will be substantially transformed in one facility; other processes will either be considered to be pre-production or post-production.

The following activities may be considered “substantial transformation” for purposes of disclosure:

- Assembling components into a product
- Cutting and sewing
- Packing produce or meat
- Processing ingredients into a product
- Refining raw material into a product

The following activities typically are not considered to be “substantial transformation” for purposes of disclosure:

- Washing, labeling, or screen-printing
- Farming
- Checking for quality
- Warehousing finished product
- Manufacturing components of a product

Guidance – Defining Facility Types

Designated or Nominated Suppliers' Facilities: Walmart or any of its subsidiaries may direct product suppliers to use another specifically designated supplier or may include a particular supplier on a nominated supplier list. A facility is a designated or nominated supplier's facility for purposes of disclosure if it is used by a designated or nominated supplier for Walmart-related business. There may be more than one such facility for each product Walmart sells. These facilities may include, but are not limited to:

- Facilities producing packaging material or labels
- Mills
- Facilities manufacturing components or ingredients of products

Post-Production Processing Facilities: A facility is engaged in post-production processing for purposes of disclosure if it is processing or augmenting finished product where the product has Walmart Private Brand identification visible at the time of the processing or augmenting. There may be more than one such facility for each product Walmart sells.

The following activities may be considered post-production processing or augmentation for purposes of disclosure:

- Washing
- Embroidery
- Pressing
- Packing
- Bottling
- Labeling

Post-production processing facilities typically would not include facilities used as part of distribution networks (warehouses, distribution centers, freight consolidators, etc.) unless the facilities are co-located with production facilities.

Guidance – Defining Merchandise Types

Direct Import Merchandise: Merchandise produced for retail sale in any Walmart format where Walmart or any Walmart entity is or will be the importer of record. This can include country-level direct imports, as well as imports through Walmart Global Sourcing & Procurement.

Private Brand Merchandise: Merchandise produced for retail sale in any Walmart format that will be sold under a mark or brand name owned by Walmart or any Walmart subsidiary. Examples include:

Equate
Marketside
Sam's Choice
Canadiana
George
White Stag

Great Value
Members' Mark
Mainstays
Faded Glory
Kid Connection
Simply Basic

Ol' Roy
Parent's Choice
Hometrends
Ozark Trail
Bom Preco
Right Buy

Exclusive Brand Merchandise: Merchandise produced for retail sale in any Walmart format that, by oral or written agreement with the supplier, will be sold under a mark or brand name available only through Walmart in that particular retail market for a period of time. Exclusive Brand Merchandise includes exclusive derivative brands of supplier brands, so long as the derivative brand is exclusive to Walmart. The exclusivity of the brand—rather than the exclusivity of the product—controls.
